

RecordBreaker

The Writer - January 2007

FREELANCING Generate articles with our A-Z guide Page 32

January 2007
the Writer

The essential resource for writers since 1887

writermag.com

SURE-FIRE
techniques
to beat writer's block
Page 30

Sharpen your skills in 99 WORDS OR LESS

HOW TO write flash fiction, get published and use it to improve your writing Page 34

He met her at the club, lights flashing, music battering.

"So, you heard about my job."

"Yeah."

"But you know, I've learned something. With your love, I can go on even without the big bucks."

"I've learned something, too."

"Really?"

"Yes. I'm much more shallow than I thought."

And she smiled, sadly, and walked away.

—"He Met Her," flash fiction by C.A. Bridges

READ
our Short Memoir Contest
winner
Page 22

SIX STEPS to bring your biography to life Page 26

Mystery writing
Add to the suspense
with the right setting Page 13

SUE GRAFTON
on finding time to write Page 24

MFA programs
How to choose when it's decision time Page 38

Paint a picture

"I most admire writers who can construct a really good sentence. In some ways it's the easiest thing in the world, but some writers can make sentences that make you say, 'Wow!'"

That was so well put! In a few words, they've painted a picture in my head conveying what they wanted me to see." —Author Bill Bryson, page 16

$6.95 CAN

0 1

Vol. 120 • Issue 1

Over 780 copies sold - Best Sale Ever!

Coast to Coast
NEWSSTAND SERVICES PARTNERSHIP